- Easy to find and book hotel rooms at fair rates
- HMI has many years of experience in the housing sector

Friedrichshafen – Exhibitors and visitors to AERO 2026 (April 22–25, 2026) can look forward to a new service offering at the leading trade show for general aviation, air sports, and business aviation: For the upcoming edition, the AERO organizer fairnamic has entered into an agreement with HMI (Hotel Management International) to offer a bundled package of available hotel rooms. As the official housing partner of AERO, HMI will launch a website on August 25, 2025, where interested parties can view and book the latest available accommodation options.

Tobias Bretzel, Show Director AERO at fairnamic GmbH, says: “We are delighted to be working with HMI, an agency with international experience in the field of housing. HMI has been a partner to leading aviation companies at other global aviation events for many years. We know that room reservations are becoming increasingly important due to the growing international popularity of AERO. HMI therefore brings together the relevant hotels in the region on one platform, offering fair accommodation rates. We are counting on close cooperation between HMI as an experienced partner and the local Tourist Information Office with its long-standing network in our local hotel industry. “

Laurent Riva, General Manager European Division at HMI, says: “We are proud to support AERO Friedrichshafen 2026, building on over 20 years of experience with leading international aviation events. From start to finish, HMI works hand-in-hand with organisers to ensure that all participants, whether trade visitors, exhibitors, media representatives and during the public day benefit from the best hotel rates and maximum flexibility across Friedrichshafen and its surrounding region. If you would like more information or wish to express your interest in attending the event, feel free to reach out to us. We'll make sure you are among the first to be contacted as soon as the booking platform goes live. “
